

Dear friends and colleagues, at the beginning of this year we were all looking forward to the 42nd Mycotoxin Workshop in Brno, Czech Republic. But finally we had to cancel our traditional meeting for the first time. The coronavirus put a brake on our plans. Covid-19 has kept us all in a state of uncertainty up to now and makes any planning for 2021 difficult.

But the good news is that the next mycotoxin workshop will definitely take place. An online conference is planned for the period 30 May - 02 June 2021. The workshop is organised by Prof. Dr. Hans Humpf and Dr. Benedikt Cramer, University of Münster, Germany. An announcement with all information will follow shortly.

At the same time, the Gedek Science Award of 10,000 € will be announced once again, which will be awarded during the workshop in Münster.

We wish you all the best for the last weeks of this rather difficult year, a Merry Christmas and a good start into the New Year

Stay healthy and take good care of yourself!
